Money is currency

In a future where time is used as currency people stop aging at 25. Upon reaching that age a clock on your arm starts counting down. Each person is granted a year . When your clock hits zero you die. To stay alive you have to earn time and because time = money, it means people work ,deal, fight, gamble and steal to get it.

My feeling

- It's a movie that makes me think, what impress me most is the mother and son's last meeting. When they are coming together, the mother's time ran out. This is a cruel but helpless thing. This time I am glad and thankful to the world I live in. There is no timetable, we don't have to work to earn time, we can spend our time on chatting with friends, entertainment and the things that make us happy. However, we should set a high value on time, after all, our time is limited and not long, Enjoy it while it lasts, because it never does
