

• Education In China

All parents want their children to become outstanding persons through education. In the spare time, they will give children cram school. It has clear benefits, but it also has negative views which we can not ignore. After taking a full schedule of a day, having some fitness clubs is the best choice to achieve more both of their physical and mental growth. To be honestly, most of the children do have a negative attitude to their cram school. It is considered to take the freedom in their mind. If parents give children too much pressure, it will be opposite to what parents have wished.

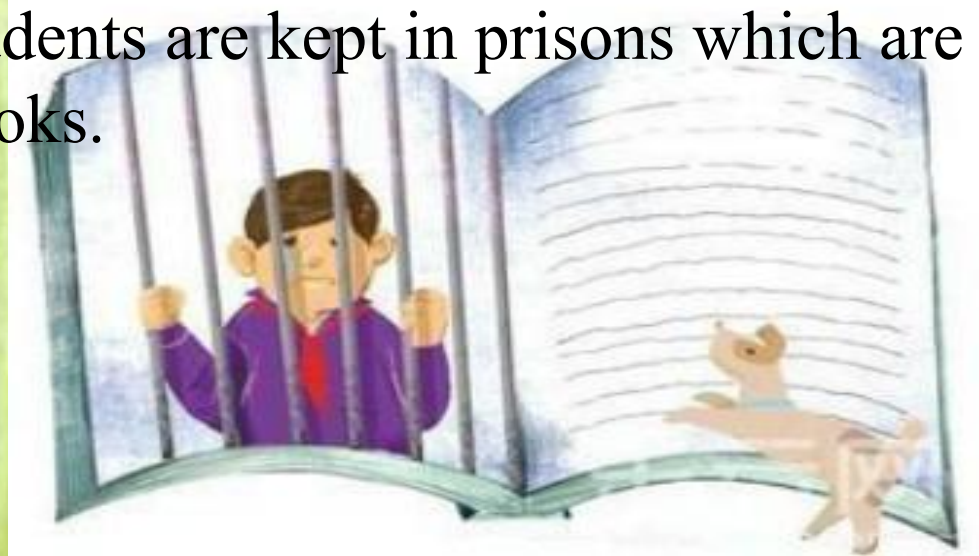

Many students face the pressure that they may fail the final exam. They will feel disappointed when compared with others, especially others make a great effort to study.

The Shortcomings
Of Chinese
Education

First Score-oriented Education

In most schools, it is the most important for students to get high scores. Students with high scores are considered to be hardworking and intelligent. But students with low scores are thought to be lazy even can be denied in other aspects. In order to get high scores, students are kept in prisons which are built by lots of books.

Second

Exam-oriented Education

Exams decide the fate of students' future. If you want to enter an excellent college or get a satisfying job in a famous company, you will face different kinds of exams. In addition, some of them only have one chance, which increases students' pressure.

Third Industrialization Of Education

In China, education is a kind of industry . It is one of the most profitable industries in the whole society, which can make the quality of education worse . What's more, changing fees unreasonably is becoming a severe problem.

